

The President of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR.

Mr. Deputy Prime Minister

Ladies and gentlemen

P.A.
G.M.
Z.H.

I should like to express on behalf of all the members of my delegation our thanks for your very warm welcome, and for the assistance ^{splendid hospitality} you have provided during this brief stop in Moscow.

It is 10 years since I was last here

I am sorry that my ^{second} first visit to the Soviet Union has been such a fleeting affair. But I am deeply grateful to our Soviet hosts for their generosity in entertaining us so hospitably at this late hour: and I am particularly grateful to you [Mr. Prime Minister] or [Mr. Kosygin] for your great kindness in coming to the Airport, which has given us a chance to meet for the first time and to have valuable discussions.

/The

No other times than in crisis

- have to be able to consider but long haul too. Year 11 2000 - effort is to reduce

- also price mechanism to work to full

- (i.e.) - nuclear power on large scale

More energy inflation

Lesson Jan. 1974

- don't accommodate inflation for moderately price increase fight it.

∴ convince people - oil increase - loss of income.

Growth

∴ it means giving up part of growth
- only foundation to resume.

∴ all we can do increase efficiency working of ind. of consumer - speed with which they adapt to change.

Reduce do - if we are to achieve a

DPSC balance of supply & demand is it must reach some understanding with oil producing countries.

All concepts applicable to U.K.

Production - identify with consumer
- determined efforts to save energy.

know - perhaps - matter to rebuild industry

Fighting inflation - perhaps even more forcibly to us.

like to just ahead - to do what's required in realistic spirit - described

The British Government is in favour of developing good relations between our two countries and we shall work with you to improve mutual understanding and to identify areas where we can co-operate fruitfully in both our interests.

We may not always agree in our approach to major international issues of the day.

But I am sure; that we can agree on the need to work for a secure and lasting peace and greater stability in international relations.

You have gone beyond protocol this evening, and I, for my part, have no wish to stand on protocol about who goes where first. I should like to repeat, as I did to the Soviet Minister of Foreign Trade, Mr. Patolichev, when he was kind enough to call on me recently in London that both Mr. Brezhnev and you

Point: note position on energy - raised energy down in surplus long wave.
Say what can be done - don't be afraid to say whether can't do.

Impart more confidence by combining action with candour when by buying the truth in recompensates.

Mr. Prime Minister Mr. Kosygin are very welcome to visit the United Kingdom at a mutually convenient time.

I should like to propose a toast to you Mr. Deputy Prime Minister, and to the development of a good, constructive relationship between the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union.

20 vashe zda rovié
sderoni .