

PRIME MINISTER

I have minuted separately about the scheduling of statements

- 1. MR. SANDERS
- 2. PRIME MINISTER

We shall have to have it - that week - other will be shall be covered A holding of up for one week - Bingham may well have to wait. The draft is very long.

The Attorney General is now ready to announce that there will be no prosecutions following the Bingham report. Cabinet decided in July that the DPP should reach a decision on this before the Government settled the issue of whether there should be a further enquiry.

The Attorney General hopes to make a statement in the House next week - text attached. I imagine that the timing of this could easily be deferred if there is a more pressing requirement for other statements in the course of the week.
