

Robin Butler

- 1. In<sup>a</sup>/tribute to the late King, Winston Churchill said this:-

"So wise and shrewd in judging between what matters and what does not".

- 2. This does not matter.
- 3. Nevertheless, there is a difference between that which appears on the Prime Minister's writing paper and that which appears on the Prime Minister's envelopes. In my respectful opinion, the word "The" should be omitted from the writing paper, as it is omitted already from the envelopes.
- 4. I remind you that on the writing paper of the President of the French Republic, the designation is "Président de la République"; and that on the writing paper of the Chancellor of the Exchequer the word "the" appears once only (and not twice).
- 5. !
- 6. I hope that no copy of this Memorandum appears in The (!) Eye.
